Purpose-built with the right combination of features and accessories for light-duty applications in healthcare.

The healthcare industry faces many challenges. Requirements are evolving rapidly. Market dynamics are changing. Margins are shrinking. And the need to streamline and error-proof work is ongoing. Mobile computers – purpose-built for healthcare – are critical tools to address these challenges.

From admissions to inventory management to the point of care, the ScanPal™ EDA51 HC mobile computer is designed for light-duty applications. It features a fast Qualcomm® Snapdragon™ SDM450 processor, robust wireless connectivity, and 12 hours of battery power, so your medical professionals can access crucial work apps and information when and where they need it.

And to help protect your patients' health from cross-infection, this mobile device is made with a healthcare-grade housing that you can disinfect and sanitize over its entire three-year life span.

The ScanPal EDA51 HC helps you deliver excellent care at a low total cost of ownership. With its intuitive, modern touchscreen design, the device is easy to use with a short learning curve. In addition, it's sleek and pocketable design is like a personal device – comfortable to use and carry all day – but rugged enough to survive in tough, medical environments. The device is also upgradeable through Android™ Q, giving your organization flexibility and built-in investment protection.
